2013 – Det internasjonale året for vannsamarbeid

UNESCO (The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation) har fått ansvaret for forberede arrangementene
International Year of Water Cooperation
World Water Day

Dette gjøres i samarbeid med
UNECE (the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe)
med støtte fra
UNDESA (the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs), UNW-DPC (the UN-Water Decade Programme on Capacity Development og UNW-DPAC (the UN-Water Decade Programme on Advocacy and Communication).

UNESCO har fått dette ansvaret grunnet organisasjonenes multidimensjonale mandat innenfor områdene naturvitenskap og humaniora, kultur, utdanning og kommunikasjon. I tillegg har UNESCO bidratt med langvarig bidrag til forvaltning av verdens ferskvannsressurser.

Water Cooperation - 2013

The fulfillment of basic human needs, our environment, socio-economic development and poverty reduction are all heavily dependent on water.

Good management of water is especially challenging due to some of its unique characteristics: it is unevenly distributed in time and space, the hydrological cycle is highly complex and perturbations have multiple effects.

Rapid urbanization, pollution and climate change threaten the resource while demands for water are increasing in order to satisfy the needs of a growing world population, now at over seven billion people, for food production, energy, industrial and domestic uses.

Water is a shared resource and its management needs to take into account a wide variety of conflicting interests. This provides opportunities for cooperation among users.

In designating 2013 as the UN International Year of Water Cooperation, the UNGA recognizes that cooperation is essential to strike a balance between the different needs and priorities and share this precious resource equitably, using water as an instrument of peace.

Promoting water cooperation implies an interdisciplinary approach bringing in cultural, educational and scientific factors, as well as religious, ethical, social, political, legal, institutional and economic dimensions.

Time to celebrate World Water Day!

22 March 2013

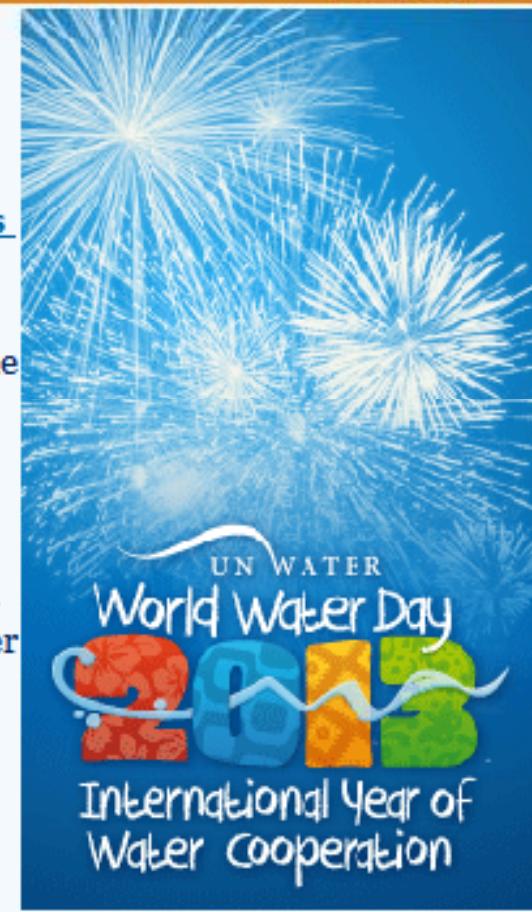

On the occasion of WWD, celebrations and events are taking place worldwide. Check the worldmap of events now >

Official celebrations and a High Level Forum will take place in The Hague, The Netherlands. The programme of the day includes inspirational speeches, presentations, panel and thematic discussions, and a series of public shows on the theme of water cooperation. Read more >

A High-Level Interactive Dialogue of the 67th session of the UNGA will also be convened in New York on 22 March to mark the 2013 International Year of Water Cooperation and the twentieth anniversary of the proclamation of World Water Day. Read more >

World Water Day

World Water Day is held annually on 22 March as a means of focusing attention on the importance of freshwater and advocating for the sustainable management of freshwater resources.
